IBM PROMOTES PROJETECH'S BUSINESS PARTNER LEVEL TO ADVANCED BUSINESS PARTNER

Cincinnati, OH, May 7, 2008 – Projetech, Inc, a fast-growing, Cincinnati-based IBM Business Partner and reseller of IBM Maximo® Software, has been promoted by IBM (NYSE: IBM) to Advanced Business Partner level status.

“I am very excited to announce our new Advanced level of Business Partnership,” says President/CEO, Steve Richmond, “After recently achieving our Authorized Independent Training Provider (AITP) status for Maximo, this elevation in partner level means so much to us. We appreciate that IBM is recognizing how committed we are to both the Maximo product, and the growth of our partnership.”

According to IBM, Advanced level Business Partners have committed to maintaining a prosperous business relationship with IBM and are recognized and rewarded for that commitment. If an IBM Business Partner has qualified skills, revenue achievements, or has demonstrated that IBM-based solutions have been successfully implemented at a customer site, IBM delivers an enhanced level of benefits to the IBM Business Partner in marketing, sales support, technical enablement and skill development. Business Partners who invest the most in IBM receive higher value benefits and resources.

“I look forward to continue working with Projetech,” says Lynn Auld, Maximo Channel Operations Manager of IBM, “I am excited to watch them grow and succeed. They contribute greatly to our Business Partnership, and we look forward to working with them to develop a mutually strong relationship to achieve success.”
